From the Pastor's Desk

Charles Spurgeon wrote, "I think I may say to every person whom I am addressing, 'If you are yourself saved, the work is but half done until you are employed to bring others to Christ. You are as yet but half-formed in the image of your Lord. You have not attained to the full development of the Christ-life in you unless you have commenced in some feeble way to tell others of the grace of God; and I trust that you will find no rest to the sole of your foot till you have been the means of leading many to that blessed Saviour who is your confidence and your hope?'"

As Jesus walked along the sea of Galilee, he saw the fishermen Peter and Andrew casting their net. He said to them, "Come and follow me, and I will make you fishers of men." He also commanded the disciples just before he left them to go and make disciples of all nations, baptizing and teaching them. It is His intention that we all be fishers of men.

There are two ways to catch fish, and a big difference in the results. It is very relaxing to sit on the bank with a pole and line waiting for the fish to take the bait. It is hard work to be a commercial fisher who has to go into the water and cast out a net. One is a hobby; the other is a way of life.

We have been called to do the hard work. I pray that we will all go out into the middle of the ocean of life and cast out the gospel net and catch the precious souls Christ wants us to redeem. We cannot sit in church and hope that people will see our nice buildings and want to come inside. Tell the good news to everyone, everywhere, all the time.

Cast out the net.

Message from Matt

You ever wonder why some things are allowed to happen? This has been something that has been on my heart heavy this week. I don't understand why God allows people who don't want children to become with child while good families who are longing for a child to love and raise are left without. I don't understand why God gives life to people who torture others but takes the life of some who are some of the most selfless, loving people we will ever meet. Every time I think about life and my focus is on myself or people in general, my thoughts seem to wonder into the area of "life isn't fair." It's easy to get into this state of mind. You can work so hard to achieve something, only to watch someone else get what you have worked so hard for and it mean nothing to them. It's not a fun place to be.

What is important for us to remember is that fairness isn't something we should really want anyway. Speaking for myself, I am a flawed human being. I have lied, stolen, hated, lusted, been envious, and the list goes on and on. If life was fair, my destination would be damnation in hell. Romans 6:23 says, "For the wages of sin is death, but the gift of God is eternal life in Christ Jesus our Lord." If all was fair, I am sure I would not like my destination when this life is over. God has spared me by sending his only Son as a sacrifice for my sin.

This doesn't mean that I still don't wonder why God allows certain things to happen to good people. What it does mean is that in my sin I am thankful for what God has allowed to take place in my life. I am thankful that, although I was dirty in sin, He has cleaned me up and forgiven me of my sin. I am thankful that God loves me, wants me, and desires to use me to further His Kingdom. I really don't know how God can love me that much!! Maybe that is why it is ok that I don't understand why some things happen. God is all-knowing, and even when we can see no good in certain circumstances, we must have faith in the God that does see good when we can't.

And we know that in all things God works for the good of those who love him, who have been called according to his purpose.—Romans 8:28

Bro. Matt
